

THINGS WORTH KNOWING.

MEDICAL USE OF SALT.—In many cases of disordered stomach, a teaspoonful of salt is a certain cure. In the violent intestinal aching, termed cholera, add a teaspoonful of salt to a pint of cold water—drink it, and go to bed; it is one of the speediest remedies known. The same will revive a person who seems almost dead from receiving a very heavy fall, &c.

In an apoplectic fit, no time should be lost in pouring down salt and water, if sufficient sensibility remain to allow of swallowing; if not, the head must be sponged with cold water until the sense returns, when salt will completely restore the patient from the lethargy.

In a fit, the feet should be placed in warm water, with mustard added; and the legs briskly rubbed, all bandages removed from the neck, and a cool apartment procured, if possible. In many cases of severe bleeding at the lungs, and when other remedies fail, Dr. Rush found two teaspoonfuls of salt completely stayed the blood.

In cases of bite from a mad dog, wash the part with strong brine for an hour, then bind on some salt in a rag.

In toothache, warm salt and water held to the part affected, and renewed two or three times, will relieve in most cases. If the gums be affected, wash the gums with brine; if the teeth be covered with tartar, wash them twice a day with salt and water.

In swelled neck, wash the part with brine, and drink it also twice a day until cured.

Salt will expel worms, if used in the form of a mol-rated d. gree and aids digestion; but salt meat is injurious if used much.—Scientific American.

AN AGRICULTURIST has tried with success the following method of making peaches grow without stones: "Turn the tops of the trees down, cut off the ends, stick them into the ground, and fasten so with stakes; in a year or two these tops will take root, and when well rooted cut off the branches connecting them; reversed and rooted branches with the tree proper, and these reversed peach trees will produce fine peaches without stones." The same experiment may be tried with plums, cherries, and currants.

[The result, we suspect, would realize a "boe experiment" than peaches.]

TO FIX PENCIL WRITING.—Pencil writing may be fixed almost indelibly by ink, by passing the moistened tongue over it. Even breathing slowly over the lines after writing, renders them much less liable to erasure than when it is subjected to that process. This fact may be of importance to persons who may wish to carry a memorandum book for a long time. In ordinary use the pages of such a book often become very much defaced by the erasure and diffusion of the pencil marks over the entire surface of the paper. A trial of the experiment will readily satisfy any person of the utility of the idea.

BAKED CORN PUDDING.—The following is excellent: Scald three pints of milk, into which stir smoothly two cups of corn meal, one cup chopped suet, or half cup butter. When cool add a well rounded cup of good sugar, two beaten eggs, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one of salt and a pint of milk, mixed with three table-spoons of flour. Add a cup of raisins, and bake two and a half hours.

If you have a screw rusted into wood, or a nut or bolt that will not readily turn, pour on it a little kerosene, and let it remain. In a little while the oil will penetrate the interstices so that the screw can be easily started.

A STRANGE AFFAIR.—The Cambria gives the particulars of another act in a singular drama that has for some time been in process of enactment at New Baltimore: On the 23d of June a daughter of Mr. Phillip Greene, of that town, was shot and severely wounded by an unknown person. On the 8th of August she was again fired at through a window. The third act now presents itself. On Saturday last Miss Greene was again wounded by a pistol shot. The young girl, who is feeble from the effects of the previous wounds, was at nighttime in the garden, when a man presented himself, uttered a threat with the emphasis of an oath, and fired, the ball entering her person. He at once fled. The wound, fortunately, is not dangerous. The case is shrouded in mystery. Some suppose that the man is known to the girl, but that for some of those strange reasons that at times govern female conduct she will not divulge his name. She, however, has made an affidavit denying all knowledge of the man. The case will not admit the suspicion that might be entertained that it is one of hallucination, or of fiction, for the noise of the pistol has been heard by others, and that veritable wounds have been made at each time. The peculiar circumstances of the case excite universal interest in the locality.

—The Richmond negroes are utterly dismayed at the fate of the suffrage amendment in Ohio, and have commenced to look with suspicion upon their Radical masters. The fact begins to dawn upon them that if the professed friends of the negro in a Northern State will not grant negroes political rights they would not do so in the Southern States either, except with a design to make a political tool of a black element.

—The Mobile Tribune gives a pictorial illustration, entitled "Scene in a Military Mayor's Court," and underneath the picture these words are printed: "Negro liceman holding a white woman, while Radical military Mayor fines her ten dollars for using 'disrespectful language' to a man and brother, 'in the act of driving a dray over her infant.'"

—Rev. Thomas H. Jones, of Penikese, Mass., a negro preacher, has been sentenced to pay a fine for an indecent assault upon a couple of white women. The serious clergyman appealed and the case will go to the Grand Jury.
